Re: Three Months and Six Months Ended June 30, 2008, Unaudited Financial Statements

Overview of Second-Quarter 2008 Financial Results

CBOE reported another quarter of solid financial results, delivering its tenth consecutive quarter of year-over-year, double-digit growth in revenues and earnings. For the three months ended June 30, 2008, CBOE s total revenues increased 15 percent to $97.6 million from $84.6 million a year earlier. Pretax earnings for the quarter were $43.9 million, up 36 percent compared with $32.2 million in the second quarter of 2007. The growth in revenues and earnings was primarily driven by higher trading volume and disciplined expense control.

| Average Contracts Traded Per Day | | 4,301 | | 3,499 | | 802 | 23% |

Transaction fees increased 19 percent to $76.6 million for the quarter, up from $64.6 million in second-quarter 2007. A 25-percent increase in trading volume during the quarter accounted for the higher transaction fees, net of a 5 percent decline in the average rate per contract. Total contracts traded for the quarter hit 275.2 million compared with 220.4 million in last year s second quarter. CBOE s average daily volume of options contracts traded was 4.3 million contracts for the second quarter of 2008, a 23-percent increase compared with last year s comparable average of 3.5 million contracts. The average rate per contract in the second quarter of 2008 was $0.278, down from $0.293 in last year s second quarter. This decrease reflects a shift in the volume mix, with a lower percentage of CBOE s volume coming from its higher-margin product categories during the quarter, as well as the impact of the sliding scale fee structure at higher volume levels.

The higher transaction fees accounted for 93 percent of CBOE s total revenue gain with the other line items only accounting for 7 percent, or $0.9 million, of the $13.0-million increase in total revenues.

Tight Expense Controls and Scalable Operating Model Deliver Higher Margins

Total expenses for the second quarter of 2008 were $53.7 million, an increase of only 2 percent compared with the prior year period. The key expense categories making up the $1.3 million variance were other expenses, outside services and royalty fees. These expense increases were offset to some degree by lower employee costs. Royalty fees increased by nearly $0.5 million, a direct result of higher trading volume in licensed products. Costs for outside services rose by almost $0.8 million compared with last year s second quarter due to higher legal fees and consulting fees for systems and software development. Other expenses increased by $2.7 million primarily due to higher DPM market linkage costs, the program that reimburses DPM s for the cost of linking customer orders to markets at other exchanges. In addition, costs for a new liquidity provider rebate program contributed to this increase. The rebate program provides incentives to market participants for executing orders at CBOE as opposed to routing to away markets. Conversely, employee costs fell by $2.7 million in the second quarter of 2008 compared with last year s second quarter, primarily due to a reduction in accrued expenses for year-end incentive awards and lower severance expense. In last year s second quarter CBOE executed a corporate restructuring program, resulting in a workforce reduction, and accordingly, higher severance costs. There was no corresponding action in 2008.

CBOE continues to focus on maximizing profitability, maintaining its strict focus on expenses and leveraging its highly scalable operating platform. CBOE s operating margin for the quarter, representing income before taxes as a percentage of total revenues, increased to 45.0 percent from 38.1 percent for the second quarter of 2007, demonstrating our ability to deliver expense synergies while also introducing innovative products and services to the marketplace.

First-Half 2008 Financial Overview

Entering the second half of 2008, CBOE is in the midst of another strong year as we continue to deliver against our fundamental business objectives, which are centered on maximizing profitability and providing our customers the highest level of service along with deep, liquid markets. Strong revenue growth combined with stringent expense management generated a 24-percent increase in pretax earnings for the first six months of 2008 compared with the same period last year.

Total revenues were $201.9 million for the first six months of 2008, an increase of $39.4 million, or 24 percent, from the same period last year. Similar to the quarter, higher transaction fees fueled by robust trading volume accounted for the growth in revenues. Transaction fees for the first half of 2008 were up $35.5 million, or 29 percent, compared with the prior year period.

Edgar Filing: CBOE Holdings, Inc. - Form 425

Total trading volume through June 2008 increased 31 percent to 557.8 million contracts compared with the prior year s 426.0 million contracts. The average daily volume of contracts traded year-to-date 2008 increased 30 percent to 4.5 million contracts compared with 3.4 million in the same period last year. Additionally, the transaction fee per contract was $0.285 for the six-month period this year, down about 2 percent from $0.290 for the six months ended June 30, 2007.

For the first six months of 2008, CBOE s operating margin increased to 47.9 percent, up more than 9 percentage points versus the comparable prior-year period, evidence of CBOE s ability to deliver profitable organic growth and further leverage the scale of its operating model.

Net income through the first half of 2008 was up 55 percent to $56.0 million, a $19.8-million increase compared with the same period in 2007.

Consolidated Balance Sheets

CBOE s working capital (current assets minus current liabilities) increased by $24.7 million during the second quarter to $227.7 million at June 30, 2008. This increase resulted from revenues outpacing cash expenses less capital spending. Meanwhile, cash and investments (excluding restricted funds) were $239.6 million at the end of the second quarter, down $3.8 million from March 31, 2008. The lower cash balance resulted in part from tax payments made during the quarter.

For the second quarter of 2008, capital expenditures were $7.2 million. The majority of capital spending supports CBOE s ongoing effort to upgrade and enhance its systems capacity and capabilities, including hardware and capitalized software. Capital expenditures through the first six months of 2008 were $17.2 million. Free cash flow, another measure of liquidity, defined as net cash provided by operating activities less capital expenditures, was $2.0 million in second-quarter 2008.
