PROSPECTUS SUMMARY

Streicher Mobile Fueling, Inc.

We provide commercial mobile and bulk fueling; integrated out-sourced fuel management; packaging, distribution and sale of lubricants and chemicals; transportation logistics and emergency response services. Our fleet of custom specialized tank wagons, tractor-trailer transports, box trucks and customized flatbed vehicles delivers diesel fuel and gasoline to customers’ locations on a regularly scheduled or as needed basis, refueling vehicles and equipment, re-supplying fixed-site and temporary bulk storage tanks, and emergency power generation systems; and distributes a wide variety of specialized petroleum products, lubricants and chemicals to refineries, manufacturers and other industrial customers. In addition, our fleet of special duty tractor-trailer units provides heavy and ultra-heavy haul transportation logistics services over short and long distances to customers requiring the movement of over-sized and/or over-weight equipment and heavy manufactured products. At June 30, 2006, we were conducting operations in Alabama, California, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Texas.

In February 2005, we acquired substantially all of the assets and business operations of Shank C&E Investments, L.L.C. (“Shank Services”) a Houston, Texas based provider of commercial fuel, petroleum lubricants distribution and sales and heavy haul transportation services. Shank Services, which conducts its operations through our subsidiary, SMF Services, Inc., generates revenues from the sale of commercial fuel, petroleum lubricants and heavy haul operations.

On October 1, 2005, we acquired all of the stock of H & W Petroleum Company, Inc. (“H & W”), a Houston, Texas based marketer and distributor of lubricants, commercial fuels and petroleum products. Immediately prior to the consummation of this transaction, H & W acquired the operating assets of Harkrider Distributing Company, Incorporated (“Harkrider”), a Houston based marketer and distributor of dry cleaning solvents, chemicals and petroleum products, which was related to H & W through some common shareholder ownership. In addition to providing service to the greater Houston metropolitan area, the combined H & W and Harkrider operations also serve the Dallas/Fort Worth, Freeport, Longview, Lufkin, San Antonio, Beaumont and Waco markets in Texas.

We are a Florida corporation. Our principal executive office is located at 200 West Cypress Creek Road, Suite 400, Ft. Lauderdale, Florida 33309, and our phone number is (954) 308-4200.

The Offering

We are registering 1,057,283 shares of common stock, issuable upon the exercise of the same number of short term warrants, to be offered for sale by certain of our shareholders.

The selling shareholders purchased the warrants in a private placement completed on June 30, 2006. We relied on Section 4(2) of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, and Regulation D promulgated thereunder in connection with the private placement.

Use of Proceeds

We will not receive any of the proceeds from the sale of the shares by the selling shareholders. The exercise price of the warrants can be paid only by an exchange of the outstanding principal, interest and pre-payment penalty on promissory notes previously issued by us on August 29, 2003 and January 25, 2005.

RISK FACTORS

You should carefully read and consider the following factors and other information included or incorporated by reference in this prospectus before investing in our common stock.

No Assurances of Future Profitability; Losses from Operations; Need for Capital. We incurred net losses for the fiscal quarter and nine-month period ended March 31, 2006, as well as for the fiscal years ended June 30, 2005 and 2004. In order to earn profits in the future, we need to increase volumes at profitable margins, control costs, fully integrate acquisitions and generate sufficient cash flow to support working capital and debt service requirements. Our most recent losses may be attributed to substantial increases in our sales, general and administrative (“SG&A”) expense, reflecting our continued spending on development of a new corporate infrastructure with capability to support our current and future subsidiary companies, higher interest expense attributable to financing of recent acquisitions, and depressed demand for our products and services and increased operating costs caused by the sudden and dramatic surge in petroleum prices. While we believe that the completion of the infrastructure development project will lead to reduced SG&A expense and that the potential conversion of outstanding debt by the exercise of these short term warrants could improve our earnings in the future, there is no assurance that our profitability will improve in the near future. Anticipated non-cash charges of approximately $500,000 in the quarter ending June 30, 2006 from the deemed conversion of the promissory notes by the issuance of the short term warrants, continuing infrastructure development costs and various negative economic conditions resulting from higher petroleum prices could adversely affect the Company’s short term financial results. For these and other reasons, there is also no assurance that we will be unable to accomplish our business plan or to raise capital at terms which are acceptable to us in order to support working capital requirements or debt service shortfalls during any business downturns. In addition, adverse market conditions, negative customer reactions to new or existing marketing strategies, or depressed economic conditions generally may cause net margin not to improve further or even to diminish.

Trading Market for our Common Stock. During the nine months ended March 31, 2006, our common stock frequently traded in large daily volumes and at wide price variances. This volatility could make it difficult for our shareholders to sell shares at a predictable price or at specific times. In addition, there may be volatility in the market price of the common stock due to factors beyond our control. Quarterly operating results, changes in general conditions in the economy, the financial markets or other developments affecting us could cause the market price of our common stock to fluctuate.

Growth Dependent Upon Future Expansion; Risks Associated With Expansion into New Markets. We intend to continue to expand through the acquisition of existing companies or their operations and customer bases. Our growth will also depend upon the ability to achieve greater penetration in existing markets and to successfully enter new markets in both additional major and secondary metropolitan areas. Market penetration and expansion into new markets will largely be dependent on our ability to demonstrate the benefits of our services and products to potential new customers; successfully establish and operate new locations; hire, train and retain qualified management, operating, marketing and sales personnel; finance capital expenditures and working capital requirements; secure reliable sources of product supply on a timely basis and on commercially acceptable credit terms; and successfully manage growth by effectively supervising operations, controlling costs and maintaining appropriate quality controls. There can be no assurance that we will be able to successfully expand our operations into new markets.

Acquisition Availability; Integrating Acquisitions. Our future growth strategy involves the acquisition of businesses engaged in wholesale commercial bulk and mobile fueling, marketers and distributors of petroleum lubricants and chemicals and transportation logistics services businesses in existing and new markets. On February 18, 2005, we acquired substantially all of the assets and business operations of Shank Services, a Houston, Texas based provider of commercial fuel, petroleum lubricants distribution and sales, and heavy and ultra-heavy haul transportation services. On October 1, 2005, we acquired the stock of H & W, a Houston based distributor of lubricants, fuels, other petroleum products and chemicals. There can be no assurance that we will be able to fully integrate these operations with our pre-existing operations or that we will identify or be in a position to make suitable acquisitions on acceptable terms in the future. Similarly, there is no certainty that we will be able to obtain acceptable financing for such acquisitions or that any future acquisitions made will be effectively and profitably integrated into our operations. In particular, to finance future acquisitions, we believe that it will be important for us to control our interest expense, by the issuance of equity securities or otherwise, since that expense increased significantly as a result of the debt financing used for our recent acquisitions. All acquisitions involve risks that could adversely affect our operating results, including management commitment; integration of the operations and personnel of the acquired business; future write downs of acquired intangible assets; and the failure to retain key personnel of the acquired business.

Management of Growth; Accounting and Information Technology Systems Implementation. Our future growth strategy is dependent on effective operational, financial and other internal systems, and the ability to attract, train, motivate, manage and retain our employees. If we are unable to manage growth effectively, results of operations will be adversely affected. In particular, the results of operations will be influenced by the redesign and implementation of our accounting and information technology systems to reduce operating costs and improve our ability to effectively manage our business and integrate acquisitions. While we are optimistic about this project based on preliminary results, there can be no assurance that such redesign and implementation will be completed as planned, or that it will have the intended results.

Dependence on Key Personnel. Our future success will be largely dependent on the continued services and efforts of Richard E. Gathright, our Chief Executive Officer and President, and on other key executive personnel. The loss of the services of Mr. Gathright or other executive personnel could have a material adverse effect on our business and prospects. Our success and plans for future growth will also depend on our ability to attract and retain additional qualified management, operating, marketing, sales and financial personnel. There can be no assurance that we will be able to hire or retain such personnel on terms satisfactory to us. While we have recently extended Mr. Gathright's existing employment agreement so that it now expires February 28, 2007, and automatically renews each year for additional one year terms unless either party gives prior notice of an intent to terminate, his long term future employment is not guaranteed by such agreement. We have also entered into written employment agreements with certain other key executive personnel.

Fuel Pricing and Supply Availability; Effect on Profitability. Diesel fuel and gasoline are commodities which are refined and distributed by numerous sources. We purchase the fuel delivered to our customers from multiple suppliers at daily market prices and in some cases qualify for certain discounts. We monitor fuel prices and trends in each of our service markets on a daily basis and seek to purchase our supply at the lowest prices and under the most favorable terms. For our fueling operations, commodity price risk is mitigated since we purchase and deliver our fuel supply daily and generally utilize cost-plus pricing when billing our customers. If we cannot continue to utilize cost-plus pricing when billing our customers, margins would likely decrease and losses could be incurred. We have not engaged in derivatives or futures trading to hedge fuel price movements. In addition, diesel fuel and gasoline may be subject to supply interruption due to a number of factors, including natural disasters, refinery and/or pipeline outages and labor disruptions. The reduction of available supplies could impact our ability to provide commercial bulk and mobile fueling, and emergency response services and impact profitability. While we maintained our record of obtaining supplies for our customers and for emergency work during difficult conditions encountered in the extraordinary hurricane season of 2005, particularly Hurricane Katrina and the resulting massive flooding in the New Orleans area, there is no assurance that this record will continue in the future or that our business will not be adversely affected by supply problems in the future.

Dependence on Suppliers. While multiple suppliers of diesel fuel and gasoline are typically available to our wholesale commercial bulk and mobile fueling operations, our lubricants and chemicals operations are more dependent on our relationships with a limited number of suppliers. While there can be no assurance that our relationship with any supplier of lubricants or chemicals will not change, we believe that, if it became necessary to change suppliers or to alter the nature or extent of our relationship with one or more of these suppliers, we have the ability to do so without a material adverse effect on our lubricants and chemicals operations.

Risks Associated with Customer Concentration; Absence of Written Agreements. Although we provide services to numerous customers, a significant portion of our revenue is generated from a few of our larger customers. While we have formal, length of service written contracts with some of these larger customers, such agreements are not customary in our business and have not been entered into by us with the majority of our customers. As a result, most of our customers can terminate their business with us at any time and for any reason, and we can similarly discontinue providing products or services to any of those customers. We may elect to discontinue service to a customer if changes in the service conditions or other factors cause us not to meet our minimum level of margins and rates, and the pricing or delivery arrangements cannot be re-negotiated. As a result of this customer concentration and the limited number of written agreements, our business, results of operations and financial condition could be materially adversely affected if one or more of our large customers were lost or if we were to experience a high rate of service terminations.

Competition. In our commercial mobile fueling operations, we compete with other mobile fueling service providers, including several regional companies and numerous small, independent operators who provide these services. We also compete with retail marketing where fleet operators have the option of fueling their own equipment at retail stations and other third-party service locations such as card lock facilities. Our heavy haul and ultra-heavy haul transportation business competes with other providers, including larger regional companies and smaller local companies. Our lubricants, chemicals and wholesale commercial fuel distribution operations compete with numerous other large and small providers of similar services. Our ability to compete is dependent on numerous factors, including price, delivery dependability, credit terms, service locations and the quality of the customer service we provide, including reporting and invoicing services. In the past our business has been adversely affected by below cost price cutting by competitors, including recent actions by a competitor in California. There can be no assurance that we will be able to continue to compete successfully as a result of these or other factors.

Operating Risks May Not Be Covered by Insurance. The bulk of our operations are subject to the operating hazards and risks normally incidental to handling, storing and transporting diesel fuel, gasoline, petroleum lubricants and chemicals, almost all of which are classified as hazardous materials. We maintain insurance policies in amounts and with coverages and deductibles we believe are reasonable and prudent. However, there can be no assurance that our insurance will be adequate to protect us from liabilities and expenses that may arise from claims for personal and property damage arising in the ordinary course of business, that we will be able to maintain acceptable levels of insurance or that insurance will be available at economical prices.

Changes in Environmental Requirements. We hope to generate future business for our mobile fueling operations by converting fleet operators who are currently utilizing underground fuel storage tanks for their fueling needs to commercial mobile fueling. The owners of underground fuel storage tanks are being required to remove or retrofit those tanks to comply with technical regulatory requirements pertaining to their construction and operation. If other more economical means of compliance are developed or adopted by owners of underground storage tanks, the opportunity to market our services to these owners may be adversely affected. Correspondingly, new or changed environmental regulations could also affect the costs involved in providing mobile fueling services or the sale of petroleum lubricants and chemicals.

Governmental Regulation. Our operations are affected by numerous federal, state and local laws, regulations and ordinances, including those relating to protection of the environment and worker safety. Various federal, state and local agencies have broad powers under these laws, regulations and ordinances. In particular, the operation of our commercial mobile fueling fleet and its transportation of diesel fuel and gasoline are subject to extensive regulation by the U.S. Department of Transportation (“DOT”) under the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Act (“FMCSA”) and the Hazardous Materials Transportation Act (“HMTA”). We are subject to regulatory and legislative changes that can affect the economics of the industry by requiring changes in operating practices or influencing the demand for, and the cost of providing, its services. In addition, we depend on the supply of diesel fuel, gasoline, petroleum based lubricants and chemicals from the oil and gas industry so that we are affected by changing taxes, price controls and other laws and regulations generally relating to the oil and gas industry. We cannot determine the extent to which our future operations and earnings may be affected by new legislation, new regulations or changes in existing regulations.

The technical requirements of these laws and regulations are becoming increasingly expensive, complex and stringent. These laws may impose penalties or sanctions for damages to natural resources or threats to public health and safety. Such laws and regulations may also expose us to liability for the conduct of or conditions caused by others, or for acts of which we were in compliance with all applicable laws at the time such acts were performed. Sanctions for noncompliance may include revocation of permits, corrective action orders, administrative or civil penalties and criminal prosecution. Certain environmental laws provide for joint and several liability for remediation of spills and releases of hazardous substances. In addition, we may be subject to claims alleging personal injury or property damage as a result of alleged exposure to hazardous substances, as well as damage to natural resources.

Although we believe that we are in substantial compliance with existing laws and regulations, there can be no assurance that substantial costs for compliance will not be incurred in the future. There could be an adverse affect upon our operations if there were any substantial violations of these rules and regulations. Moreover, it is possible that other developments, such as stricter environmental laws, regulations and enforcement policies thereunder, could result in additional, presently unquantifiable, costs or liabilities to us.

The compliance requirements of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 have placed an increasing time burden on our personnel and significantly increased the costs with being a publicly traded company. We cannot determine the future costs of compliance with this Act; whether our compliance efforts will satisfy its compliance requirements; or whether, or to the extent which, our future operations or earnings may be affected by the Act’s impact on our business operations.

Agents, dealers or underwriters may receive compensation in the form of underwriting discounts, concessions or commissions from the selling shareholders and/or the purchasers of shares for whom they act as agent or to whom they sell as principals, or both. The selling shareholders and any agents, dealers or underwriters that act in connection with the sale of shares might be deemed to be “underwriters” within the meaning of Section 2(11) of the Securities Act, and any discount or commission received by them and any profit on the resale of shares as principal might be deemed to be underwriting discounts or commissions under the Securities Act. Because the selling shareholders might be deemed to be underwriters, the selling shareholders will be subject to the prospectus delivery requirements of the Securities Act.

Each selling shareholder will be subject to applicable provisions of the Exchange Act and the associated rules and regulations under the Exchange Act, including Regulation M, which provisions may limit the timing of purchases and sales of shares of our common stock by the selling shareholders.

To the extent required, we will set forth in a supplement to this prospectus filed with the SEC the number of shares to be sold, the purchase price and public offering price, the name or names of any agent, dealer or underwriter, and any applicable commissions or discounts with respect to a particular offering. In particular, upon being notified by a selling shareholder that a donee or pledgee intends to sell more than 500 shares, we will file a supplement to this prospectus.

State Securities Law. Under the securities laws of some states, the selling shareholders may only sell the shares in those states through registered or licensed brokers or dealers. In addition, in some states the selling shareholders may not sell the shares unless they have been registered or qualified for sale in that state or an exemption from registration or qualification is available and is satisfied.

Expenses; Indemnification. We will receive up to $2,685,499 upon exercise of the warrants by the selling shareholders, although the exercise price of the warrants can be paid only by an exchange of the outstanding principal, interest and pre-payment penalty on promissory notes previously issued by us on August 29, 2003 and January 25, 2005. We will bear all expenses related to the registration of this offering but will not pay for any underwriting commissions, fees or discounts, if any. We have agreed to indemnify the selling shareholders against some civil liabilities, including some liabilities which may arise under the Securities Act.
