Joseph R. Swedish, President and Chief Executive Officer, Anthem, Inc.

David Cordani, President and Chief Executive Officer, Cigna Corporation

Swedish:

Hi, I'm Joe Swedish, President and CEO of Anthem.

Cordani:

And I'm David Cordani, President and CEO of Cigna.

Swedish:

Anthem and Cigna have reached a definitive agreement under which Anthem will acquire Cigna a transaction that will accelerate our vision of being America's valued health partner. The combination will provide compelling benefits for our members, providers, employees and all shareholders.

And most importantly it will further our commitment to ensuring consumers have expanded access to affordable health coverage.

Our commitment to consumers is the foundation of this proposed transaction, and will remain our top priority.

Cordani:

That's right, Joe.

One of the primary benefits of this combination is that it will create differentiated value for customers at every life and health stage, leading to enhanced health status.

We're going to do this by accelerating current strategies to create a company that will transform health care, in partnership with health care professionals, for the benefit of our customers.

Key to this will be:

- i Expanded provider collaborations;
- i Enhanced affordability and choice as well as personalization; and
- i Ongoing innovation that delivers a better health care experience for customers.

No company will be better positioned to deliver on this exciting and much needed customer promise.

Swedish:

We all know health care is changing, and our responsibility as a health plan is evolving.

We recognize the need to help purchasers of health care decide how to choose and utilize health care not just pay for it.

The combined capabilities of these two companies, guided by our proven strategic pillars will allow us to follow through on this important responsibility to our members.

Cordani:

For a combined nearly 275 year history, Anthem and Cigna have been leaders in delivering innovative and affordable health and protection solutions that help address individuals and family needs, as well as support of the communities we serve.

Our combined capabilities and geographic footprint will expand access to an unmatched network of hospitals, physicians, and health care professionals.

And it will allow us to offer a broader spectrum of personally relevant and high quality solutions, as well as products that ensure as many customers as possible have access to quality, affordable health care and protection services.

Swedish:

It is important to acknowledge that America is impacted by, and plays a significant role in the global healthcare ecosystem.

Cigna's international presence and partnerships in more than 30 countries will give us a deeper understanding of population health and will allow us to better identify, mitigate, and prevent disease here and abroad.

I am eager to begin working with David, who will join Anthem as President and Chief Operating Officer.

David has more than two decades of health care leadership and a proven track record of driving innovation and growth at the companies he's led.

Cordani:

Anthem and Cigna are uniquely experienced in creating products and services tailored to diverse customer needs.

Looking forward, we will maintain this focus and flexibility as we move forward to building a future. I'm looking forward to beginning to work with Joe and the entire Anthem team to deliver on this commitment to our customers.

Swedish:

We expect to close the transaction by the end of 2016. Until that time, there is no change to our current member, provider, broker, or customer relationships and both companies are operating business as usual. Anthem and Cigna are committed to continuing the highest levels of service for all of our constituencies throughout the transition and into the future.

We invite you to explore this website to learn more about the transaction.

Thank you for taking the time to join us today.
