The following message from Infinity Property and Casualty Corporation (Infinity) Chief Executive Officer Glen Godwin was sent to employees of Infinity on February 13, 2018.

Fellow Infinity Employees:

I am proud to announce that Infinity has entered into a merger agreement with Kemper. Kemper businesses collectively offer insurance for home, auto, life, health and valuables, and service six million policies. As the two companies share a similar goal, of delivering valuable products at competitive prices to underserved customer segments, combining the organizations results in increased scale in the nonstandard auto insurance market. As a stronger combined entity, we are better able to serve the needs of our customers, enhance our overall growth opportunities and financial strength, become more diversified, and create significant value for our shareholders.

What does this mean for Infinity Employees?

Kemper's interest in merging with Infinity is a reflection of your talent and hard work which has made our unique strategy successful year after year. Today is the first step in a long transition process, but until the transaction closes, business will continue to operate as usual. In the meantime, merger integration teams will be formed in the next several weeks and details will be communicated as they are finalized. There are no plans to change major operating locations in the foreseeable future.

How we will keep you informed

While we are still working through a lot of the details related to the transition, attached to this email you will find a list of answers to some questions you might have at this point in the process. We will continue to communicate the details of the transition process as they become available, both by email and by posting information within Workday. Should you have any additional questions, please contact Robin Adams at robin.adams@ipacc.com.
