GOL Lead Internet Sales in 2004

São Paulo, March 9, 2005 GOL Linhas Aéreas Inteligentes S.A. (NYSE: GOL and Bovespa: GOLL4), Brazil's low-fare, low-cost airline, was one of the largest e-commerce companies in Brazil in 2004. Internet sales in 2004, at R$1.6 billion, accounted for 80% of the Company's R$ 2 billion in sales.

A large part of the online sales success can be attributed to the Company's marketing of the Internet as a convenient tool for the purchase of airline tickets. Attracted by the efficiency offered by GOL's sales distribution channel, travel agencies obtained productivity gains and the penetration of new markets. During the fourth quarter of 2004, GOL's website received approximately 600,000 unique visitors per month, representing over 50% growth compared to 2003.

GOL has long-used the Web as a tool to make travel more convenient and efficient for its customers. From its inception, GOL has primarily focused on selling tickets via the Internet and eliminating the need for traditional paper tickets. In addition, GOL offers other virtual services, including allowing customers to check-in and change flights online. The e-commerce platform is essential to GOL's business, providing customers with easy access to our services. Additionally, use of the Web supports GOL's low-cost, low-fare model, said Tarcísio Gargioni, Marketing and Services Vice President.

In December of last year, the Company, in partnership with the mobile operator VIVO, provided its passengers with one more convenient and powerful tool, enabling them to purchase tickets and check-in via an Internet-ready cell phone.
