ITEM 4.02. NON-RELIANCE ON PREVIOUSLY ISSUED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

GM has been conducting an internal review of credits received from suppliers and the appropriateness of its accounting treatment for them during the years 2000-2005. This issue is one of the matters that is also being investigated by the SEC as previously reported by GM.

The review of supplier credits is ongoing and GM has not reached final conclusions about this matter. However, the review to date indicates that GM erroneously recognized some supplier credits as income in the year in which they were received rather than in the future periods to which they were attributable. Based on the information to date, GM currently estimates that its net income from continuing operations for 2001 was overstated by approximately $300 million to $400 million (or about 25% to 35%) due to this error. Accordingly, although the final restatement amounts have not yet been determined, GM has determined to restate its financial statements for 2001, and the restatement is expected to be material to the financial statements previously reported for that year. GM will also restate financial statements for periods subsequent to 2001 that may be affected by the erroneous accounting. However, the effect of any such restatement in subsequent periods is expected to be immaterial to those financial statements.

GM anticipates that it will complete the review referred to above and take any appropriate action to correct previously reported financial statements prior to the filing of its annual report on Form 10-K for 2005. On November 8, 2005, the Audit Committee of the Board of Directors concluded that, due to the likelihood of a material restatement of GM's financial statements with respect to 2001, investors should no longer rely on GM's previously filed financial statements for that year, nor the related auditors' reports thereon.

The Audit Committee of the Board of Directors of GM has discussed this matter with its independent registered public accounting firm, Deloitte & Touche LLP.
