Item 8.01 Other Events.

As previously announced by Zix Corporation (Nasdaq: ZIXI) (the Company) and described in its periodic filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission, in early September 2004, several purported shareholder class action lawsuits (Class Actions) were filed in the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Texas, Dallas Division (the Court), against the Company and certain of its current and former officers and directors. The Class Actions sought unspecified monetary damages on behalf of purchasers of the Company's common stock between October 30, 2003, and May 4, 2004. The Class Actions alleged that the defendants made materially false and misleading statements and/or omissions in violation of Sections 10(b) and 20(a) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 during this time period. These Class Actions were subsequently consolidated into one case.

The Company and the plaintiffs have reached an agreement in principle to settle the Class Actions within the Company's directors' and officers' liability policy limits, and without the payment of any monies by the Company or the individual defendants to the plaintiffs or their counsel. The Company, throughout these litigations, has strenuously denied and continues to deny each of the allegations of wrongdoing and liability against it whatsoever. It decided to settle the Class Actions solely to avoid the burdens, risk, and substantial expense that would result from the continuation of these actions.

This agreement in principle is subject to the negotiation and execution of definitive agreements between the parties and preliminary and final approval by the Court. There is no assurance that such definitive agreements will be reached, that any action noted above can be brought into, or otherwise bound by, the proposed settlement, if finalized, that the proposed settlement will receive the required court approvals, or will otherwise become effective. The terms of the proposed settlement will be set forth in the definitive agreements and orders of the Court.

SIGNATURES
