Corporate restructuring, £60m annualised cost savings, Board Changes

Following a review of its operating structure and functions, the Board of ScottishPower today announced a significant corporate restructuring that will result in annualised cost savings of £60m a year. This will be achieved by ceasing a wide range of reporting, regulatory and management functions previously required by the ownership of PacifiCorp and by simplifying the management structures of the continuing operations and corporate functions.

The restructuring will take place during the course of the current financial year and will give rise to an exceptional charge of £35m. There will be some benefits from the cost reduction programme in this current financial year with the full savings of £60m in the following year and thereafter.

As a consequence of the restructuring there will be a number of changes to the Board and the senior management team. Charles Berry's role as Executive Director of the UK Division and David Nish's role as Executive Director of the Infrastructure Division will no longer exist and both of these executives will be leaving the company with immediate effect. Judi Johansen, CEO of PacifiCorp, will continue on the Board until the sale of PacifiCorp is complete. As a consequence of the restructuring of the corporate functions, Dominic Fry, currently Corporate Communications Director, and Mike Pittman, currently Group Human Resources Director, will be leaving the Company with immediate effect.

Ian Russell, Chief Executive, said:

Once we had made the strategic decision to sell PacifiCorp, which changes significantly the shape and scale of the group, it was necessary to review our management, operating and cost structures for the continuing businesses. The changes announced today and the resultant savings arise from stopping a range of activities previously required by our ownership of PacifiCorp and by simplifying the structure of the group. Following these changes the direct focus of the management will now be on delivering to our shareholders the benefits of further operating improvements, our £4.5bn investment programme, and seizing the opportunities for further sustainable growth.

The Board and I are very conscious that these necessary changes will have an effect on many of our colleagues within the organisation. In particular a number of senior colleagues on the Board and Executive Team will be leaving as a consequence of these structural changes. We would like to express our sincere thanks for all their work, the significant contribution they have each individually made to ScottishPower over the years, and wish them every success in the future.

Details of corporate restructuring

Following the decision to sell PacifiCorp, ScottishPower is now focused on the continued growth and development of its UK operations and continued growth of PPM Energy in the US. These combined continuing businesses have grown their profits by 38% over the two years to March 2005.

There are substantial opportunities for their further development and a £4.5bn investment programme, allied to continuing improvements in operating performance, will underpin future growth across all of these businesses. This restructuring introduces an operating structure that reflects the new shape and scale of the group post PacifiCorp. It also puts operating management at the centre of the business and delivers essential support functions in a cost efficient manner.

The cost savings announced today will come principally from two sources:

First, the ownership and management of PacifiCorp imposed operational and reporting requirements on ScottishPower. As a consequence of the sale, cost savings are achievable from the reduction of functions that support the ownership of PacifiCorp. These will no longer be required and the cessation of a wide range of managerial and regulatory activities will release substantial savings.

Secondly, there will also be a substantial change to the organisational structure of the UK businesses, designed to drive performance through reduced layers of management, the achievement of further efficiencies, and the consolidation of shared support functions.

The continuing businesses in the UK will be Energy Networks, Energy Retail and Energy Wholesale, and in the US, PPM Energy. The heads of each of these four businesses will report directly to the Chief Executive.

They will also become members of the main operating forum of the group, the Executive Team, together with three functional heads who will lead the shared support services, namely Finance and Strategy; Legal, Secretariat and Commercial; and, Human Resources and Communications. In addition, Ronnie Mercer, Executive Vice President of PacifiCorp Operations will remain on the Executive Team until the sale of PacifiCorp is complete, at which point it is expected that he will retire.

The new Executive Team will now be:

Ian Russell, Chief Executive
Simon Lowth, Finance and Strategy
Terry Hudgens, PPM Energy
David Rutherford, Energy Networks
Willie MacDiarmid, Energy Retail
John Campbell, Energy Wholesale
Ronnie Mercer, PacifiCorp Operations
James Stanley, Legal, Secretariat and Commercial
Stephen Dunn, Human Resources and Communications

The Strategic Transactions business develops the group's position in renewable generation and other aspects of the emerging market for environmental instruments through selected investment in plant and gas storage facilities, as well, as building and commissioning wind farms in the British Isles.

In total the UK Division combined operating profit in 2004/05 was £175.6m.

PPM Energy

PPM Energy is the group's fast growing competitive US energy business, with operating assets in ten US states and in Canada. Its diverse portfolio, focus on wind power and moderate risk approach all position PPM Energy for expected earnings growth. The business is growing through a strategic focus on clean energy: concentrating on renewable power, natural gas storage and hub services; and gas-fired generation.

In 2004/05 its operating profit was £58.1m.
