Gold Fields: Harmony Bid Extension

Creates More Doubt for Shareholders

Johannesburg, 28 January 2005: The Board of Directors of Gold Fields Limited (GFI: JSE and NYSE) ("Gold Fields") notes that Harmony Gold Mining Limited ("Harmony") has now waived the condition in its offer whereby it required acceptances in excess of 50%.

The Board welcomes this clear acknowledgement by Harmony that there is no prospect that they will acquire majority control of Gold Fields as a result of their offer, which both significantly undervalues Gold Fields and has resulted in massive value destruction for the shareholders of both companies. The Board would also like to warn the shareholders of both companies that there can be no certainty for some time as to what shareholding, if any, Harmony will come to hold in Gold Fields.

To clarify the circumstance surrounding Harmony's withdrawal of its 50% acceptance condition:

Harmony, at the last moment, withdrew its application to the Securities Regulation Panel to extend the 60 day period during which it was entitled to retain such condition;

2.

Harmony has only received an insignificant additional 44,416 Gold Fields shares in its subsequent offer; and 3.

Having now waived the 50% condition, Harmony is clearly indicating that it is prepared to settle for a minority stake in Gold Fields rather than the complete takeover it originally envisaged.

Furthermore, Gold Fields would like to point out to shareholders of both companies that the requisite regulatory approvals, including that of the Competition Authorities, are unlikely to be forthcoming soon. The Competition Commission has yet to make its recommendation to the Competition Tribunal, which will in due course hold hearings in regard to the application before it. This application is being vigorously opposed not only by Gold Fields, but also by a number of affected persons including local community bodies, suppliers and trade unions. Should the application be denied, the Competition Tribunal has the power to order Harmony to divest itself of any shares it may have acquired under its composite offer.

Uncertainty for shareholders is further compounded by the fact that:

Harmony has no rights in relation to the shares it acquired under the Early Settlement Officer, and as a result cannot do anything with the shares pending a ruling from the Competition Tribunal.

2.

Norilsk Nickel is not obliged to tender the shares it holds in Gold Fields unless all regulatory approvals, including Competition approval, are obtained by 20 May 2005;

3.

all shareholders tendering their shares under the subsequent offer are entitled to withdraw their acceptances at any time up to the offer becoming wholly unconditional, which would only be if and when the Competition Tribunal approves Harmony's bid; and 4.

Harmony could be required to divest its shares in Gold Fields should the Competition Authorities reject their application

Gold Fields Chief Executive Ian Cockerill said, "Contrary to Harmony's claims, at this point in time Harmony controls nothing of Gold Fields. And in waiving the 50% requirement, Harmony has finally acknowledged what the market has been saying for months: Harmony is not going to succeed in its hostile and unsolicited attempt to acquire Gold Fields on the cheap. We still await Harmony's CPR. While we look forward confidently to our results announcement on Monday, which we have indicated will show how well our business is performing despite the strong rand environment, we look forward to hearing how Harmony explains why over 50% of their shafts are loss making at the current rand gold price and how they intend to repair their balance sheet and stem the cash burn. We call on Harmony to end the value destruction and abandon its failed offer. "
